PART 1: FREEDOM OF INFORMATION OVERVIEW

In the year that the FOI Act celebrated its 25th anniversary of coming into operation the number of requests received passed 25,000 for the first time. More Victorians than ever are exercising their right to apply to access documents pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act 1982.

A record 25,356 FOI requests were received by agencies across Victoria in 2007/2008 - 6% more than the previous year and a 78% increase in the number of requests received since the first full year of the Bracks/Brumby governments.

Access to documents was provided to applicants in part or in full in 97.6% of all access decisions made during 2007/2008. That is, only 2.4% of all access decisions made resulted in the applicant receiving no documents.

Again this year the personal affairs exemption (section 33(1)) was the most used individual exemption. This exemption allows the consideration of the protection of an individual's personal affairs when making decisions on access to documents.

Even though the legislative amendments recommended by the Ombudsman and introduced by the government last November were not passed by the Legislative Council in February 2008 we have been active in enhancing the FOI system in Victoria.

All of the administrative changes recommended by the Ombudsman have been implemented through initiatives including the publication of FOI Practice Notes, the introduction of a quarterly FOI newsletter and professional development seminars.

In particular the Department of Justice has further strengthened its leadership role in providing support and assistance to all agencies in applying FOI laws.

A series of FOI seminars were conducted in Melbourne and regional Victoria and the FOI Online website (foi.vic.gov.au) was redeveloped to make it easier to navigate and find information. Additional FOI Practice Notes are being prepared for the site to assist agencies to understand FOI laws and procedures.

I am delighted that more and more Victorians are making use of the FOI Act and look forward to continuing to improve the FOI process so more Victorians can gain access to the information they seek.

PART 2: USE OF FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

The statistical information contained in this report was collated from data provided to the Department of Justice from over 1,000 State Government bodies subject to the FOI Act. The statistical data was requested by the Department and provided on a uniform basis by agencies, in accordance with the requirements of sections 64 and 65AA of the Act.

1. Number of Requests, Internal Reviews and Victorian Civil and Administration Tribunal Appeals

Table 1 provides a summary of the total number of FOI requests, corresponding internal reviews and Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal (VCAT) appeals, for each period since 1984/1985. The number of requests received each year is represented graphically in Chart 1.

The number of requests reported in 2007/2008 showed an increase of almost 6% on the figure for the previous year to 25,356.

In 2007/2008 applicants in 1.3% of requests sought an internal review. This represents a marginal increase on last year which was the lowest percentage of requests internally reviewed ever reported. Original decisions on access were confirmed in 75% of internal review decisions made.

There were 146 appeals lodged at VCAT in 2007/2008. Of these appeals 45 were subsequently withdrawn.

Of the 25,356 requests reported by agencies, less than 1% (0.6%) were appealed to VCAT. Decisions made by the Tribunal resulted in agency decisions being fully confirmed in 77.5% of cases. VCAT partially upheld agency decisions in 7.5% of appeals decided, while in 15% of the appeals decided in 2007/2008, VCAT granted full access to documents.

2. Access Decisions on Requests

The level of full access to documents as a proportion of all access decisions made in 2007/2008 was static at 78.6% last year and this year. Partial access decisions increased slightly to 19.0% in 2007/2008, compared to 18.8% in 2006/2007 (see Table 2 and Chart 2). This means that applicants gained access to documents in 97.6% of requests where access decisions were made. Access was refused outright in just 2.4% of these requests.

In 2007/2008, personal requests represented 58% of total requests received while non-personal requests represented the remaining 42%.

Charts 2 to 4 illustrate the outcomes of requests, reviews and appeals in 2007/2008.

TABLE 2: ACCESS DECISIONS ON REQUESTS

Note: This table reflects access decisions made in 2007/2008. It does not include situations where a request was received and one of the following applied: the applicant did not proceed with the request; the request was made in 2007/2008 but had not been decided at the end of the reporting period; the agency did not hold the documents sought; or the agency and the applicant agreed on a form of access satisfactory to the applicant outside the FOI process

3. Most Frequently Cited Exemptions

The five most frequently cited exemptions in 2007/2008, in order of most used to least used were:

- ◇ Section 33: the protection of an individual's personal affairs;
- ◇ Section 30: internal working documents containing opinions, advice or recommendations of officials or Ministers where it would not be in the public interest for those documents to be released;
- ◇ Section 38: where another enactment (other than the FOI Act) categorises particular documents as confidential;
- ◇ Section 31: law enforcement documents; and
- ◇ Section 35: information provided in confidence to government bodies.

4. Fees and Charges for Requests

The statistics provided suggest that fees are being waived or reduced in approximately 32% of cases. This is based on the total number of requests (25,356) multiplied by $22.00. If the fee were charged in each case, revenue received from fees would have been $557,832.00. However, fee revenue reported was $379,143.60.

It is difficult to determine exactly how much was waived in charges. Often where charges are to be waived agencies do not calculate the actual charges that would have been applicable. If the total charges revenue of $377,868.09 were divided across the 25,356 requests, each applicant would have paid $14.90 in access charges.

5. 'Top 30' Agencies

Of the over 1,000 agencies that provided information incorporated into this report, agencies in the 'Top 30' handled 83% of requests. Sixty percent of requests received by the 'Top 30' agencies concerned personal documents. Table 4 identifies the relevant 30 agencies.

PART 3: DETAILED STATISTICS FOR EACH AGENCY

6. Requests Received by Agencies

Agencies often receive applications which do not proceed for a number of reasons. This can be for reasons such as the applicant not paying the fee or the request for information not being relevant to the agency. There are also instances where the applicant is provided with the information without needing to proceed with the formal FOI process. While many of these requests can require a commitment of time and resources by the FOI officer, they are technically not requests under the Act.

The Attorney-General's February 2000 FOI Guidelines to assist in the administration of the FOI Act require agencies to look to providing information outside the FOI process. The existence of the FOI Act should not mean that the formal process provided under it is the only means of obtaining access to documents or information of an agency.

Appendix A provides details of the number and type of requests received by agencies subject to FOI and the outcome of those requests. Information for inclusion in this report was not received from 3 rural cemetery trusts.

7. Requests for Internal Review

After the initial access decision, if an agency decides not to grant access to a document, the applicant has a right to appeal that decision. The first stage of appeal is usually an 'internal review'. This requires a written request to the principal officer of the agency asking that a fresh decision on the request be made.

Appendix B shows those agencies that received requests for internal review of a decision and provides an indication of the outcome of those reviews. The outcomes relate to the original decision made by the FOI officer in terms of whether it was confirmed, varied or overturned. Where a decision of the FOI officer is varied under review, the fresh decision may be a minor variation on the original decision, or may involve the disclosure of a significant amount of additional information. Reporting by agencies does not differentiate between these two potential outcomes.

Where an original decision is shown as being overturned, this means the applicant was granted full access to the documents in question.

Only those agencies that received requests for internal review are listed in Appendix B.

8. Appeals to the Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal

If an applicant is not satisfied with the outcome of an internal review, he or she may then appeal to the Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal (VCAT).

Appendix C identifies the agencies where decisions resulted in appeals being lodged and/or decided by VCAT in 2007/2008. The data in this table is based on the number and type of decisions handed down by the Tribunal in 2007/2008, whether or not those decisions were as a result of appeals lodged in that year or previous years. This is necessary given the time that can often pass between an appeal being lodged, the mediation and other processes that can occur prior to a formal hearing, and a final decision being handed down by the Tribunal.

The VCAT process includes conciliation between parties whereby the applicant and respondent are called before the Tribunal for a preliminary conference to try to resolve documents in dispute before the case proceeds to a hearing. Appeals are often withdrawn as a result of this process.

9. Exemptions Cited

Where an agency refuses to allow an applicant access to documents, the agency is required by the FOI Act to give reasons for its refusal. In refusing access, an agency is limited to the situations provided for in the Act (exemptions). Appendix D lists all the exemptions cited to applicants by agencies when refusing access.

10. Decision Makers

The FOI Act operates at the agency level. It is an official of that agency who makes the initial decision and a different official (or the principal officer) who reviews a decision if requested by the applicant.

Appendix E names each official, specifying their title and the number of times that official made decisions to grant access in full, grant access in part or refuse access to documents requested. It also names each internal review officer and the number of times original decisions were confirmed, varied or overturned.

11. Fees and Charges

In 2007/2008 the Act required a request for access to documents to be accompanied by an application fee of $22.00. Any other monies payable in respect of a request after the application fee has been paid are referred to in the Act as "charges". This explains the differentiation between the fees and charges in Appendix F. All charges occur after the initial step of paying the application fee and apply to the cost of supplying copies of documents, providing access in other forms, supervising access to documents, and searching for documents.

The Act provides that fees can be waived or reduced where payment would cause hardship. Similarly, charges can be waived where the applicant is impecunious and the request is for personal documents, as well as in some other situations. The decision on whether or not to waive a fee or charge rests with the agency.

12. Retrospective Access

Agencies were asked to comment on the practicability of extending the period of retrospective access. Agencies, other than councils, are not required to process requests for non-personal documents created prior to 1978 and councils, not prior to 1989. Requests for personal documents are not subject to a time limitation, and therefore depend only on whether documents are still held. Agencies have generally indicated that due to the infrequency of these requests, the resources required and document retention policies, it is not practical to extend the period of retrospective access.

PART 4: HOW TO USE FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

13. What is Freedom of Information

Since 1982 the FOI Act has given the community the right to apply for information held by Ministers, state government departments, local councils, most semi-government agencies and statutory authorities, public hospitals and community health centres, universities, TAFE colleges and schools. Where a service has been outsourced by a government body, access to documents relating to the service would generally still be possible where the service is provided under contract or the agency is the contract manager, unless some specific provision otherwise applies.

14. More information

The Victorian Government Freedom of Information Online website (foi.vic.gov.au) provides guidelines and general information to assist access to government documents by using the FOI Act. Information on this website includes the contact details of agencies subject to the Act. From the site you can download a Freedom of Information (FOI) request form and locate the correct agency to send your request to. You can also make and pay for a request to one of the ten government departments or Victoria Police online.

The website also includes an explanation of freedom of information, who makes FOI decisions, details of what information is (and is not) available, how to apply, costs, rights of complaint, frequently asked questions and copies of Freedom of Information Annual Reports.

'Appeals Withdrawn from VCAT' figures are also included in the 'Other' column.

'VCAT Denied Access' covers situations where VCAT affirmed the agency's decision; a case was struck out; or the matter was dismissed.

'Other' includes cases that were withdrawn or settled prior to the VCAT hearing or not yet decided by VCAT.

The data in this table is based on the number and type of decisions handed down by the Tribunal in 2007/2008, whether or not those decisions were as a result of appeals lodged in that year or previous years. This is necessary given the time that can often pass between an appeal being lodged, the mediation and other processes that can occur prior to a formal hearing, and a final decision being handed down by the Tribunal.
