FOREWORD

I have much pleasure in submitting to both Houses of Parliament, the 2007 Freedom of Information Annual Report.

This report reflects the operation of freedom of information in Victoria for the 2006/2007 financial year and has been prepared in accordance with sections 64 and 65AA of the Freedom of Information Act 1982.

PART 1: FREEDOM OF INFORMATION OVERVIEW

I am pleased to report that a record 23,977 FOI requests were received by agencies across Victoria in 2006/2007. This is a 12% increase in the number of FOI requests received in the previous year and equates to an increase of over 68% in the number of requests received since the first year of this government.

More Victorians than ever are exercising their right to apply to access documents pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act 1982.

I am encouraged to see that access to documents was provided to applicants in part or in full in 97.4% of all access decisions made during 2006/2007. That is, only 2.6% of all access decisions made resulted in the applicant receiving no documents.

I reported in last year's FOI Annual Report that the Victorian Ombudsman had tabled a report which contained a number of recommendations aimed at strengthening the FOI process. Departments and Victoria Police report they have implemented all the non-legislative recommendations not already part of their standard practices.

I am pleased to note that the Department of Justice has embraced the Ombudsman's recommendations with a range of initiatives to further assist FOI decision makers and FOI applicants alike.

The Department has strengthened its leadership role to provide support and assistance to all agencies in applying FOI laws. This leadership is important to maintaining the community's ability to gain access to information held by Government. Practice Notes have been published to assist agencies to understand FOI laws and procedures, a whole range of seminars for FOI officers have been conducted in Melbourne and regional Victoria, and the FOI Online website now includes information to assist new and inexperienced FOI practitioners by providing them with an overview of the FOI process and their responsibilities.

In November this year, I introduced into Parliament amendments to the FOI Act to ensure access to Freedom of Information will be cheaper and easier. This Government has restored and improved public access to information and these reforms will further modernise the FOI Act.

The legislation, if passed, will implement all the Ombudsman's legislative recommendations and go even further by abolishing FOI application fees, abolishing conclusive certificates in relation to Cabinet documents, expanding the lodgement of online FOI applications, and ensuring that government departments and agencies publish more information on the Internet. These amendments are further proof that this Government is committed to strengthening accountability by making more information available to the public.

PART 2: USE OF FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

The statistical information contained in this report was collated from data provided to the Department of Justice from 1,026 State Government bodies subject to the FOI Act. The statistical data was requested by the Department and provided on a uniform basis by agencies, in accordance with the requirements of sections 64 and 65AA of the Act.

1. Number of Requests, Internal Reviews and Victorian Civil and Administration Tribunal Appeals

Table 1 provides a summary of the total number of FOI requests, corresponding internal reviews and Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal (VCAT) appeals, for each period since 1984/1985.

The number of requests reported in 2006/2007 showed an increase of more than 12% on the figure for the previous year to 23,977.

In 2006/2007 applicants in 1.3% of requests sought an internal review. This is the lowest percentage of requests internally reviewed ever reported. Original decisions on access were confirmed in 78% of internal reviews.

There were 117 appeals lodged at VCAT in 2006/2007. Of these appeals 45 were subsequently withdrawn.

Of the 23,977 requests reported by agencies, less than 1% (0.5%) were appealed to VCAT. Decisions made by the Tribunal resulted in agency decisions being fully confirmed in 56% of cases. VCAT partially upheld agency decisions in 19% of appeals decided, while in 26% of the appeals decided in 2006/2007, VCAT granted full access to documents.

2. Access Decisions on Requests

The level of full access to documents as a proportion of all access decisions made in 2006/2007 increased from 78.1% last year to 78.6% this year. Partial access decisions decreased to 18.8% in 2006/2007, compared to 19.3% in 2005/2006 (see Table 2 and Chart 1). This means that applicants gained access to documents in 97.4% of requests where access decisions were made. Access was refused outright in just 2.6% of these requests.

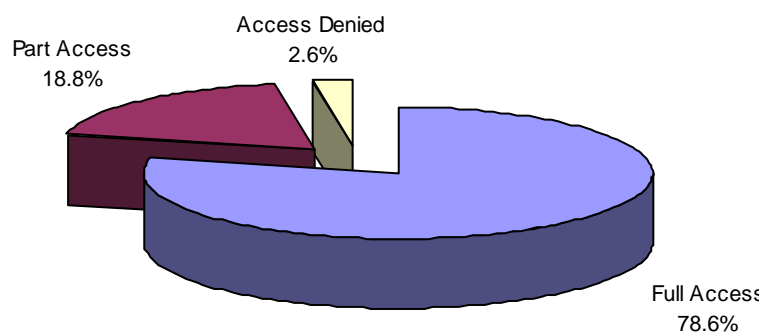

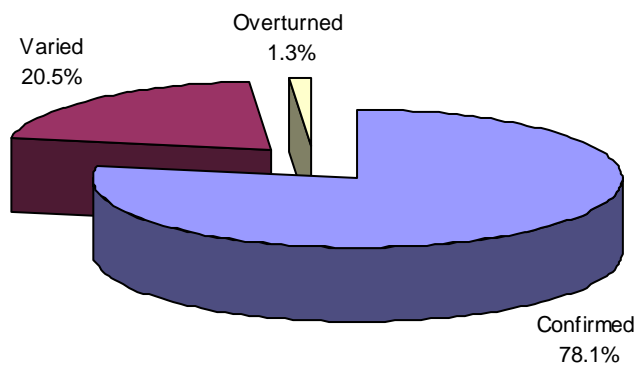

In 2006/2007, personal requests represented 54% of total requests received while non-personal requests represented the remaining 46%.

Charts 1 to 3 illustrate the outcomes of requests, reviews and appeals in 2006/2007.

TABLE 2: ACCESS DECISIONS ON REQUESTS

Note: This table reflects access decisions made in 2006/2007. It does not include situations where a request was received and one of the following applied: the applicant did not proceed with the request; the request was made in 2006/2007 but had not been decided at the end of the reporting period; the agency did not hold the documents sought; or the agency and the applicant agreed on a form of access satisfactory to the applicant outside the FOI process

3. Most Frequently Cited Exemptions

The five most frequently cited exemptions in 2006/2007, in order of most used to least used were:

- ◇ Section 33: the protection of an individual's personal affairs;
- ◇ Section 30: internal working documents containing opinions, advice or recommendations of officials or Ministers where it would not be in the public interest for those documents to be released;
- ◇ Section 38: where another enactment (other than the FOI Act) categorises particular documents as confidential;
- ◇ Section 35: information provided in confidence to government bodies; and
- ◇ Section 31: law enforcement documents.

4. Fees and Charges for Requests

The statistics provided suggest that fees are being waived or reduced in approximately 28% of cases. This is based on the total number of requests (23,977) multiplied by $21.50. If the fee were charged in each case, revenue received from fees would have been $515,505.50. However, fee revenue reported was $372,292.50.

It is difficult to determine exactly how much was waived in charges. Often where charges are to be waived agencies do not calculate the actual charges that would have been applicable. If the total charges revenue of $394,974.21 were divided across the 23,977 requests, each applicant would have paid $16.47 in access charges.

5. 'Top 30' Agencies

Of the 1,026 agencies that provided information incorporated into this report, agencies in the 'Top 30' handled 82% of requests. Fifty-six percent of requests received by the 'Top 30' agencies concerned personal documents. Table 4 identifies the relevant 30 agencies.

PART 3: DETAILED STATISTICS FOR EACH AGENCY

6. Requests Received by Agencies

Agencies often receive applications which do not proceed for a number of reasons. This can be for reasons such as the applicant not paying the fee or the request for information not being relevant to the agency. There are also instances where the applicant is provided with the information without needing to proceed with the formal FOI process. While many of these requests can require a commitment of time and resources by the FOI officer, they are technically not requests under the Act.

The Attorney-General's February 2000 FOI Guidelines to assist in the administration of the FOI Act require agencies to look to providing information outside the FOI process. The existence of the FOI Act should not mean that the formal process provided under it is the only means of obtaining access to documents or information of an agency.

Appendix A provides details of the number and type of requests received by 1,026 agencies subject to FOI and the outcome of those requests.

7. Requests for Internal Review

After the initial access decision, if an agency decides not to grant access to a document, the applicant has a right to appeal that decision. The first stage of appeal is an 'internal review'. This requires a written request to the principal officer of the agency asking that a fresh decision on the request be made.

Appendix B shows those agencies that received requests for internal review of a decision and provides an indication of the outcome of those reviews. The outcomes relate to the original decision made by the FOI officer in terms of whether it was confirmed, varied or overturned. Where a decision of the FOI officer is varied under review, the fresh decision may be a minor variation on the original decision, or may involve the disclosure of a significant amount of additional information. Reporting by agencies does not differentiate between these two potential outcomes.

Where an original decision is shown as being overturned, this means the applicant was granted full access to the documents in question.

Only those agencies that received requests for internal review are listed in Appendix B.

8. Appeals to the Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal

If an applicant is not satisfied with the outcome of an internal review, he or she may then appeal to VCAT.

Appendix C identifies the agencies where decisions resulted in appeals being lodged and/or decided by VCAT in 2006/2007. The data in this table is based on the number and type of decisions handed down by the Tribunal in 2006/2007, whether or not those decisions were as a result of appeals lodged in that year or previous years. This is necessary given the time that can often pass between an appeal being lodged, the mediation and other processes that can occur prior to a formal hearing, and a final decision being handed down by the Tribunal.

The VCAT process includes conciliation between parties whereby the applicant and respondent are called before the Tribunal for a preliminary conference to try to resolve documents in dispute before the case proceeds to a hearing. Appeals are often withdrawn as a result of this process.

9. Exemptions Cited

Where an agency refuses to allow an applicant access to documents, the agency is required by the FOI Act to give reasons for its refusal. In refusing access, an agency is limited to the situations provided for in the Act (exemptions). Appendix D lists all the exemptions cited to applicants by agencies when refusing access.

10. Decision Makers

The FOI Act operates at the agency level. It is an official of that agency who makes the initial decision and a different official (or the principal officer) who reviews a decision if requested by the applicant.

Appendix E names each official, specifying their title and, where applicable, the number of times that official made a decision to refuse access to some or all of the documents requested.

11. Fees and Charges

In 2006/2007 the Act required a request for access to documents to be accompanied by an application fee of $21.50. Any other monies payable in respect of a request after the application fee has been paid are referred to in the Act as "charges". This explains the differentiation between the fees and charges in Appendix F. All charges occur after the initial step of paying the application fee and apply to the cost of supplying copies of documents, providing access in other forms, supervising access to documents, and searching for documents.

The Act provides that fees can be waived or reduced where payment would cause hardship. Similarly, charges can be waived where the applicant is impecunious and the request is for personal documents, as well as in some other situations. The decision on whether or not to waive a fee or charge rests with the agency.

12. Retrospective Access

Agencies were asked to comment on the practicability of extending the period of retrospective access. Agencies, other than councils, are not required to process requests for non-personal documents created prior to 1978 and councils, not prior to 1989. Requests for personal documents are not subject to a time limitation, and therefore depend only on whether documents are still held. Agencies have generally indicated that due to the infrequency of these requests, the resources required and document retention policies, it is not practical to extend the period of retrospective access.

PART 4: HOW TO USE FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

13. What is Freedom of Information

Since 1982 the FOI Act has given the community the right to apply for information held by Ministers, state government departments, local councils, most semi-government agencies and statutory authorities, public hospitals and community health centres, universities, TAFE colleges and schools. Where a service has been outsourced by a government body, access to documents relating to the service would generally still be possible where the service is provided under contract or the agency is the contract manager, unless some specific provision otherwise applies.

14. More information

The Victorian Government Freedom of Information Online website (www.foi.vic.gov.au) provides guidelines and general information to assist access to government documents by using the FOI Act. Information on this website includes the contact details of agencies subject to the Act.

This website also includes an explanation of freedom of information, details of what information is (and is not) available, how to apply, rights of complaint, frequently asked questions and copies of Freedom of Information Annual Reports.
