Protecting privacy is everyone's responsibility

Your privacy rights

Remember, you have privacy rights

Victorian public sector (VPS) organisations have obligations when collecting, managing, using and disclosing your personal information.

You can help protect your privacy

Ask VPS organisations why they are collecting your personal information and read the organisation's privacy policy to make sure you're comfortable with how your information will be used.

It's important to understand your privacy rights so you know when something doesn't seem right and where you can go for help.
